

TRACING LINES 5

Do you want to learn handwrite nicely and correctly? These exercises can help you. Draw over the shapes first, and then draw the same shapes until the end of the line. Draw the shapes in the direction of arrows. The direction of drawing is important for nice and fluent handwriting. Try to use correct tilt and height of shapes.

The image shows a handwriting practice sheet with 12 rows of tracing exercises. Each row is contained within a set of four horizontal lines. The exercises are as follows:

- Row 1: A solid wavy line with an arrow pointing right, followed by three dashed wavy lines, each starting with a dot.
- Row 2: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by three dots.
- Row 3: A solid wavy line with an arrow pointing right, followed by seven dashed wavy lines, each starting with a dot.
- Row 4: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.
- Row 5: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.
- Row 6: A solid wavy line with an arrow pointing right, followed by three dashed wavy lines, each starting with a dot.
- Row 7: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.
- Row 8: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.
- Row 9: A solid wavy line with an arrow pointing right, followed by ten dashed wavy lines, each starting with a dot.
- Row 10: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.
- Row 11: A dashed wavy line starting with a dot, followed by ten dots.